Course Description

The Certificate in the Foundations of Counselling and Psychotherapy is a one-year course running from January to November each year that offers a thorough grounding in basic counselling skills from a spiritual perspective that embraces the psychodynamic, humanistic, and transpersonal approaches.

The course comprises one evening a week from 6.30-8.30pm. The Foundation Course is delivered in person at CCPE in Little Venice.

More information can be found on our website at <https://ccpe.org.uk>

Entry Requirements

The current Foundation course entry requirements require applicants to have:

- Sufficient relevant life experience and resilience
- Personal maturity and a willingness to reflect deeply
- An interest in personal and spiritual development including a willingness to enter personal psychotherapy.
- A capacity to listen and respond in a group with respect and openness to difference.
- Evidence of skills and capacity for essay writing and academic work at certificate level

Additional requirements

- The use of psychedelic drugs or psychedelic drug therapies is not allowed while training at CCPE.

Sometimes applicants are required to attend specific weekend courses at CCPE as part of the requirements to be accepted onto the Foundation. The courses incur a charge to attend, and you will be evaluated during the weekend as to your suitability.

Due to the volume of applications received each year, please be advised that those who are not accepted onto the foundation will not be provided explicit detail for why their application has been denied.

Requirements for Award of the Foundation Certificate

Upon completion of the course successful candidates will be awarded a certificate in the Foundations of Counselling and Psychotherapy. The criteria for successful completion are as follows:

- Students are required to be in Psychotherapy with a recognised Psychotherapist for 40 hours, the majority of which must be during the course.
- Two written assignments: one on counselling theory, the other to demonstrate the student's personal development during the course.
- A minimum of 80% attendance of course lectures and 100% attendance of the weekend seminars.

The course can serve as a preparation for the Centre's four-year professional Diploma in Counselling and Psychotherapy training (UKCP accredited).

For those hoping to go on to the Diploma training, a place on the Foundation course does not guarantee a place on the Diploma Clinical training. There are more applicants than there are places. Further, the diploma training is not suitable for everyone, and you may need to do more personal work before trying again another year.
